Count it Anger

Print out a set of the cards and laminate. Round off the corners.

How to play

Put the cards in a pile facing downwards. Each player picks a card. The leader of the game picks a category card. Each child must either:

Trigger- Name something that makes them feel angry.

Style of anger– What do they do when they feel angry. How do they show their anger?

Body language – Make it! They must make the body language associated with their anger.

Physical sensations – Name one! They must name a physical sensation that they might have if they feel angry.

Calming – Name a calming technique

Thoughts – Name a thought you might have when you feel angry.

The highest number for that category wins just their card. The rest go in the pile.

Continue with each child picking a card and the leader picking a new category.

Play for a set amount of time or until all the cards are won.

The person with the highest value wins – you might need a calculator or the children can practice their maths skills.
